Cable No.2682 reporting the death of the late Officer quoted the letters "M.M", but there is no other record of the award of the Military Medal to him. I should be glad to have your advice on the matter.

Dear Sir,

In reply to your letter of 7th inst., I have to state no advice was received of the award of the Military Medal to the late Lieut. F. R. Brook, 43rd Batn., until the receipt of the cable reporting his death, which quoted the latters "M.M." after his name.

A communication has therefore been despatched to A. I. F. Headquarters, London, enquiring whether the notification of the award has been omitted from the records forwarded, or whether the cable erroneously quoted the letters. On receipt of a reply from that Administration you will be advised.

Yours faithfully,

Captain.

Sir,

On behalf of the widow of the late Lieut. F.R. Brook, M.M., I write asking for information regarding the presentation of the Military Medal to this Officer. To the best of our knowledge, Lieut. Brook never had the Medal in his possession, which we assume was won during the battle of Messines in June 1917, just prior to obtaining his commission, although we had official advice shortly before he was killed in action on the 4th July, 1918, that he had been "mentioned in despatches" by Sir Douglas Haig.

Your assistance in this matter would be greatly appreciated by Mrs. Brook and the writer.

Yours truly,

F.W. Brook

BIOGRAPHICAL.

THE LATE LIEUT. F. R. BROOK, M.M.

Lieut. Frank Richmond Brook, M.M., killed in action in France on July 4, 1918, was a son of the late Mr. W. J. Brook, accountant, of North Adelaide. He enlisted on August 20, 1915, and left South Australia as a sergeant in C Company, 43rd Battalion. After a period of training at Salisbury Plains he left with his battalion for France, and took part in many important engagements, including that at Messines. He was wounded on July 1, 1917, and was sent to Weymouth Hospital, and later for recuperation to Scotland. While in hospital he received his commission as lieutenant. After further fighting he was again invalided to England, suffering from trench fever, but soon rejoined his battalion, with which he remained until his death. Lieut. Brook was twice mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches for conspicuous bravery in the field, and gained the Military Medal. Prior to enlistment he was in the service of the South Australian Railway maintenance branch. He was prominently connected with a number of societies and associations in North Adelaide and Prospect, and was a past President of the S.A. Homing Association. He was of a genial and lovable disposition, and his death will be keenly felt by a large circle of friends. A widow (daughter of Mrs. M. Hopkins, of Olive street, Prospect) and a young son survive.

Chronicle (Adelaide, SA : 1895 - 1954), Saturday 20 July 1918

BROOK.—Killed in action, Lieutenant F. R. Brook, M.M., C Company, 43rd Battalion, beloved husband of Jean Brook, and loving father of James Brook, Olive-street, Prospect. His duty nobly done.

BROOK.—In ever loving memory of our dear brother-in-law, Lieutenant F. R. Brook, M.M., who made the supreme sacrifice, July 4.

AUSTRALIAN SOLDIERS.

DIED FOR THEIR COUNTRY.

Lieutenant FRANK RICHMOND BROOK, M.M., killed in action in France on July 4, 1918, was a son of the late Mr. W. J. Brook, accountant, of North Adelaide. He enlisted on August 30, 1915, and left South Australia as a sergeant in the 43rd Battalion. After a period of training at Salisbury Plains, he left with his battalion for France, and took part in all the prominent engagements, including Messines. He was wounded on July 4, 1917, and was sent to England, and later to Scotland. While in hospital he received his commission as lieutenant. After seeing further fighting he was again invalided to England, suffering from trench fever, but soon rejoined his battalion, where he remained until his death on July 4, 1918. Lieutenant Brook was twice mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches for conspicuous bravery on the field, and gained the Military Medal. Prior to enlistment he was in the service of the South Australian railway maintenance branch. He was prominently connected with a number of societies and associations in North Adelaide and Prospect, and was a past president of the Homing Association. He was a fine, manly, and patriotic Australian, and was of a genial and lovable temperament. His death will be much felt by a large circle of friends. A widow (daughter of Mrs. M. Hopkins, Olive-street, Prospect) and a young son are left.
