ACTIVE SERVICE.

Reconciled
INSTRUCTIONS TO SOLDIER.

1. You will produce this book whenever you require an advance of cash on account.

2. You will give a receipt, on the acquittance roll of the Officer paying you, for all cash advances made to you. The Officer making the payment will sign the corresponding entry in this book on the page for Cash Payments.

3. You will make no entries in this book, except to sign your name on pages 4 and 8 and to make your will, if you so desire, on page 15.

4. Should you lose your book you will at once report the loss to your Commanding Officer. A new book will be obtained, if possible, from the Accountant, but it must be understood that no pay can be issued in respect of the period before the date on which you report your loss, until you are finally settled with.

NOTE.—The account of the soldier while on active service will be kept in the Office of the Accountant paying the Base Depot of his Unit, and to that Office all communications relating to his accounts should be addressed.

You are ordered abroad as a soldier of the King to help our French comrades against the invasion of a common Enemy. You have to perform a task which will need your courage, your energy, your patience. Remember that the honour of the British Army depends on your individual conduct. It will be your duty not only to set an example of discipline and perfect steadiness under fire but also to maintain the most friendly relations with those whom you are helping in this struggle. The operations in which you are engaged will, for the most part, take place in a friendly country, and you can do your own country no better service than in showing yourself in France and Belgium in the true character of a British soldier.

Be invariably courteous, considerate and kind. Never do anything likely to injure or destroy property.

A MESSAGE TO

The Men of the Third Australian Division.

You are about to embark for France in order to take your places by the side of our Australian kinsmen, who in Gallipoli and France, by their valour and endurance, have made Australia famous throughout the world.

In the name of our Commonwealth, I call upon every one of you to resolve that, in the task which lies ahead, you will endeavour to display the highest qualities of self-sacrifice, discipline, devotion to duty, and self-restraint under all temptations; in order that the reputation you are to earn may rank second to none.

You have undergone training in the arts of modern fighting, and in the conduct of a disciplined soldiery. Remember to apply everything that you have learned at all times, and in all places; for on the manner in which you do this you will be judged.

While your future renown will rest chiefly upon your fighting qualities, your courage in the face of the enemy, and your perseverance under hardships, it will depend also upon your soldierly behaviour, whether on or off duty, your prompt obedience, your respect for your military superiors, your smartness of appearance and bearing, and, particularly, your regard for the welfare and property of the women and children of France whose men-folk are away from their homes helping us to fight our common enemy.

Keep in mind the crimes of that enemy against our Empire, our Allies, and humanity, and be determined, now that the opportunity for which you have waited so long has come at last, to work and to fight with all the strength and all the skill of which you are capable.
